¹ Fuel consumption figures are based on ADR81/02 test results. They are useful in comparing the fuel consumption of different vehicles. They may not be the fuel consumption achieved in practice. This will depend on traffic and road conditions and how the vehicle is driven.

² Prior to purchasing a Mazda vehicle or Bluetooth® device (in particular, a mobile phone) you should always consult with Mazda Bluetooth® Hands-Free Customer Service and visit www.mazdahandsfree.com for further information about compatibility. The types of Bluetooth® devices (including mobile phones) that can be connected to the hands-free system are limited and, even among compliant devices; there are some which may not operate reliably with your Mazda. It is the responsibility of the consumer to purchase a suitable Bluetooth® product that will operate correctly with their Mazda. Although Bluetooth® is intended to be a standard protocol, Bluetooth® device manufacturers may incorporate certain changes within this standard protocol over the course of the product lifecycle of the device (especially mobile phones). These changes are outside the control of Mazda and may result in Bluetooth® functionality becoming impaired and Mazda does not accept responsibility for this.
